Goodyear introduces the "50-state tire"

It's called the All-Traction... Goodyear's latest design for every road.

Goodyear built All-Traction to give the new breed of bikes a surer grip on American roads.

You drive all day at turnpike speeds. Take curves faster and hit potholes harder. So we gave All-Traction a new kind of Tufsyn rubber with extra "cling" and just as much toughness. And backed it with the body strength of rugged 3-T nylon cord.

We molded big chunky tread blocks in the rubber to give you positive stops. And set sipes in the blocks to help you maneuver in 5:30 traffic.

We angled the grooves to spin water out of the tread, for Fifth Avenue when it drizzles.

We used heat resistant additives, for Interstate 10 when it sizzles.

We gave All-Traction everything the world's largest tire maker could give it for the kind of driving you do.

You're riding on tires that came with your machine.
Now try a pair that were made to fit your driving.

Yamaha sweeps Daytona 3rd. straight year!

Wins 7 out of 10 in 100-mile classic!

Daytona Beach, Florida: There were high winds coming out of the southeast and the temperature was a chilling 48°. Tough racing conditions. A record number of the world's top riders on the fastest machines ever assembled ... 150 of them ... revved up for the four qualifying heats. Yamaha won all four as 80 riders transferred to the main event. That was just the beginning! ■ In the 250 cc. finals it was Gary Nixon winning every lap as he streaked to victory. A field day for Yamaha ... winning all four of the heat races, setting new track records in both the heat and final, taking seven out of the first ten places in the final and becoming the first to win the event three straight times! In 1965 it was Yamaha 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10. In 1966 Yamaha took 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 9, 10. And this year Yamaha swept 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

Motorcycle Club Has Display At Chicago, Illinois Sportsman And Vacation Show

This report by the Ridgewood Cycle Club is about a very successful public relations effort on behalf of motorcycling.

Frank Delaney (an ex-desert hare-n-hound man) who was manager of the "Action Area" of the 1967 Sportsman and Vacation Show at Chicago proposed the club consider a display booth at the Show. Interest within the 20 member club was very high and after solving a few minor problems it was decided that the club would prepare a display for the show.

In the few days remaining before show opening there were myriad of assignments to accomplish — cycles to be borrowed, picked up and cleaned, raffle tickets to be printed, signs made, and incidentals rounded up such as tables, chairs, trophies, helmets, record player with motorcycle sound story records, AMA safety banners, film and literature.

Just as the pieces of a jig-saw fit together so did the pieces and bits of the RCA booth. The show opened Friday, Feb. 10th and a successful nine days of public relations for the sport and hobby of motorcycling began. RCA members in dress slacks, white shirts, ties and gold nylon club jackets talked of motorcycles and motorcyclists for the entire run of the show — from noon until 11:00 p.m. daily. The sport and vacation minded public of Chicago and vicinity had but to pause in the area of the RCA booth and a member was there to offer free cycle safety literature.

Generally, this opening was sufficient to allow members to speak about cycling; that it is a clean, wholesome, safe sport and hobby. We would give accounts of our club efforts toward promoting safer cycling by telling of a High School Motorcycle Safety Seminar given in conjunction with the State of Illinois Driver Education program. It was nice to point out our own safe cycling record, validated by our AMA safety banners on display. Usually, by the time the above information was covered our spectator friends would ask a question concerning cycling. This we welcomed; for it's obvious motorcycling hasn't been too favorably treated by the news media and at last the public would have the opportunity to get the motorcyclists views, first hand. In every instance were the members able to effectively and fairly answer the questions asked.

People wanted to know registration figures, accident statistics, pending legislation, insurance particulars, riding technique, vacation tips and economy figures. Some wanted to know about the technical side such as maintenance or tuning while others wanted to know what size and brand cycle was best for them. We answered them all and when a tough question came along members would consult each other so that a proper answer could be given. There were some unusual questions, too! We'll bet not many people in the motorcycle fraternity can name three commercially available water-cooled motorcycles.

The colorful display set up by the Ridgewood Cycle Club. Dick Bielfeldt and Mike Vancil assemble literature while members Don Dial and Al Peterson point out safety features on one of the display motorcycles.

Every day hundreds, and on weekends thousands of people viewed the booth. All were given pamphlets on "Two Wheeled Wisdom", "Stone Age Rules of the Road", "Hey There, Don't Forget Me", Daytona Beach program of 1967 events and an application blank for AMA membership. Some memberships were accepted during the show and we feel many more will follow.

Many past and present cyclists stopped to visit with the members. None of these visitors left without congratulating us for our efforts which certainly made the long hours on the concrete more enjoyable. Three area cyclists were so impressed by the booth that they shot color motion pictures and several rolls of still photographs. One of these, Curt Weigold, is President of the Northern Illinois Motorcycle Clubs Association; representing more than 25 motorcycle clubs from the northern Illinois area.

The last day of the Show Miss Ann Clark, show performer and three-time National Archery Champion, drew the winning name for the raffled cycle. Frank Manes, his wife Theresa, and their four children took delivery of their new cycle the next day.

The Homewood-Flossmoor and Chicago Heights Star newspapers afforded the club publicity while the show was in progress. Radio station WAAF interviewed RCA booth chairman, Don Dial at the show. Station WGN carried a brief after-the-show announcement of the raffle winner. The Chicago Tribune newspaper gave publicity to the Ridgewood Cycle Club members and motorcycling as did the Harvey Tribune and another story in the Chicago Heights Star and the Homewood-Flossmoor Star.

The members enjoyed themselves while being on display. All were able to take occasional breaks to enjoy the sights of the show and other displays. Several of the wives of members assisted in the project and certainly added to the attractiveness of the booth.

The succcess and widespread publicity of the club has begun to make itself felt. Soon after the Show the club was contacted by program director, Art Schalaman of radio station WTAQ. Mr. Schalaman wants to schedule the members of the Ridgewood Cycle Club in an hour-long program. He also wanted volunteers to be guest speakers (the day after he called) at the La Grange Lions Club noon meeting and lunch. We accepted on both counts. We now have a very fancy Certificate of Appreciation from the Lions International. Mr. Schalaman admitted he was first introduced to our club and its efforts in safety while he attended the Sportsman and Vacation Show!

Special License Plates For Antique Motorcycles

According to a news item just released by Arthur Sigal, President of the Antique Motorcycle Club of America, the State of Pennsylvania has taken the lead in providing special license plates for antique motorcycles.

Through the exclusive efforts of State Senator Mrs. Jeanette Reibman, Pennsylvania will begin supplying these special plates approximately April 1st, 1967.

Mr. Sigal urges members of the Antique Motorcycle Club of America and other persons owning antique motorcycles to contact their local State Representative in order to make an effort to get similar consideration in their respective states.

Unidentified 'Cycle Rider Is Praised

This heartening and amusing bit appeared on the front page of the Reading Eagle last fall under the above title. A bit of public relations in action.

All motorcycle riders aren't miscreants. One woman can vouch for that as the result of an incident that occurred.

She and her two daughters returned from a shopping trip to downtown Reading about 1:30 p.m. to find the shrubbery in front of the house burning furiously. Flames were shooting up the front of the stone house.

Frantically, she pounded on the door to rouse her lawyer husband, who, it turned out, was taking a shower, completely unaware of the excitement on the outside.

Meanwhile, a neighbor, who was taking a walk, spotted the flames and ran into another neighbor's house and called the fire department.

The Marion and Hampden fire companies, along with the Deputy Chief and Asst. Chief were dispatched to the scene.

But before the firemen arrived on the scene, a young motorcycle rider who was passing by with his girl friend, stopped his cycle, jumped off, removed his dungare jacket and beat out the flames.

Overwhelmed with gratitude, the woman asked him what she could do to reward him. Noticing that the sleeves

Gordon Davidson Of Harley-Davidson Motor Co. Succumbs

The passing of Gordon Davidson on March 6, 1967, was a shock to all those who knew him. Mr. Davidson succumbed after a brief illness.

Son of Walter Davidson, one of the founders of the Harley-Davidson Motor Co., Mr. Davidson spent his entire business career with the Milwaukee motorcycle company.

Born in 1911, he was the brother of Walter C. Davidson, the firm's Vice President - Sales, and Robert J. Davidson, a Milwaukee attorney, and attended West Side High School in Milwaukee. Interestingly, his graduation from High School coincided with an 8,000 mile motorcycle tour of the United States. Along with his brother Walter and cousin Allan Davidson, the three spent the summer of 1929 going cross-country on three Harley-Davidson motorcycles. Their tour was a combination goodwill visit to dealers and a road test of the motorcycles then being manufactured by the founders of the Harley-Davidson Motor Co., and the fathers of the boys.

Following the 1929 cross-country tour, Mr. Davidson entered the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania. He graduated in 1933 and began work at the Harley-Davidson Motor Co. in the Accounting Department. In 1937 he was elected to the Board of Directors of the Motor Company, and in that year transferred to the Production Planning Department.

He rose to Assistant Superintendent in 1941, and in the following year was elected Vice President/Manufacturing, a post he held until his death. During his tenure as Vice President/Manufacturing, the Company acquired a second manufacturing facility at Capitol Drive in Milwaukee, and the Tomahawk works in Tomahawk, Wisconsin. A joint venture with an Italian firm was also launched, providing Harley-Davidson with an overseas facility, Aermacchi Harley-Davidson, S.p.A.

He was a director of Eck Foundries, Kilbourn Finance Corp., and Highland Insurance Service. He was a member of the Milwaukee Athletic club and the Wisconsin Club, of which he was a former Vice President and former Director. He was a member of the Western Racquet Club, Pewaukee Yacht Club and the Chenequa Country Club.

Mr. Davidson's entire career was devoted to the motorcycle business. His presence will be greatly missed by the industry.

Like all Harley-Davidson products, Pre-Luxe oil is made for your motorcycle. With a high viscosity index, Pre-Luxe retains its index weight throughout the normal high operating temperatures of motorcycle engines. You get smooth lubrication from starting to top rpm. For years, Harley-Davidson oil has always done the job.

were out of his jacket, and thinking that they had been burned out, she offered: "May I buy you a new jacket?"

"No lady," the motorcyclist responded. "I cut them out."

"Well, what can I do?" she asked.

"Nothing," he replied, "I just hope you don't think that all people on motorcycles are no good."

"With that he jumped on his motorcycle and he and his girl friend rode off. I don't even know his name, but I do want him to know we're so grateful," she declared.

As the motorcyclists disappeared, the firemen came roaring onto the scene.

With the flames already out, they prodded around the shrubbery and found among the ashes of pine needles and peat moss four cigar butts, one of which, they figure, started the fire.

Then they packed up and headed back home, and found out their trip wasn't a complete loss. On the way to their stations, they came across an auto fire and managed to get in some fire-fighting practice.

The auto was a city car driven by a detective. The rear seat was burning, and this, too, the firemen believe might have been the result of a tobacco product.

Story by Donna Garman

Not only has the Stone Mountain enduro become a 75 mile national, it has also moved from the crowded metropolitan area of Atlanta to the scenic mountains of North Georgia.

Twenty-three states were represented by the 258 riders entered. It seemed only natural that Illinois, with sixty riders, should claim the champion. Representing the state were Bill Baird, Charles Thiakos, Ted Schwartz, Bob Agans, John Young and many more.

It was John Young, beating out Bill Baird by one point, who took the championship trophy back home to Algonquin. Twelve more states could claim trophy winners. But of the forty-six trophies, ten plus the championship went back to the Land of Lincoln.

By Saturday evening riders were arriving at the starting point a few miles south of Dalton, just off Interstate 75. The Georgia Crackers MC had a huge tent set up in a field to house the trophies and riders board. By the time Sunday morning dawned bright and clear, the tent and surrounding field was in the usual hustling activity of last minute preparation.

At 9:01 riders Bill Wyatt of N. Hanover, Mass. and Robert Grewe of Dundee, Ill. left the starting line; it was nearly noon before things quieted down to wait the return of the riders.

Although Stone Mountain has long since been abandoned as part of the actual run, this year it had as its replacement Dug Gap Mountain and the surrounding ridges.

The start gave the rider .6 mile of wood trail; it wasn't too long until they were upon the first spectator point, a small creek. Just touching into the creek, they then headed up over the bank into the woods. The problem (at least for some) was to get out of the creek without getting stuck in the mud. By this time Dug Gap Mountain has been conquered but there were still other mountains to cross.

On to an abandoned power line they rode. There were terraces, slick spots and a few swampy areas. Six miles of this with the terraces getting rougher with each mile. Hard riding eased momentarily as they were given a newly graded road leading to a light tower.

Need I add that they were now on top of a mountain; from which there was no turning back. So descend it they must; only to be greeted by rocks, rocks of all sizes and shapes, big ones, little ones, round ones, flat ones, and mostly rough ones. As one rider put it," I know they must have left out one, but how I'll never know."

Prior to this enduro, the 100 yards of rock was known simply as the "rock pile", but another rider at the end of the day referred to it as "some little old lady's rock garden". So henceforth it will be known as just that.

Now, oh joy, they were given a clearing, did I say joy? A clearing with holes in it, but with a little luck and a lot of skill they were soon to the fifth check. Clear sailing from there, not quite. There was one more creek to cross, but with spectators cheering the riders on to the homestretch it was getting easier. There were still some wood trails and a wooded hillside to be dealt with, but going down hill is so much easier.

If I have made the run seem short remember that the easy areas I have omitted in my writing, but the rider didn't. For there were the usual ditches, wooded trails and enough road to give the rider a breather. I also left out the crossing of one mountain. I'm not sure where it entered the picture, but it was there and had already taxed the strength of the rider by the time he reached the rocks.

Still it was a good run, for despite the dirty faces the riders were all smiles when they arrived at the finish line. One such face was that of Benny Bootle. Benny will tell you that the last seven miles was mostly downhill, if it hadn't been he might never have gotten his machine to the finish line. It was seven miles from the finish that his chain completely gave up, so with coasting and pushing Benny arrived back to check in. In doing so he was able to take home a trophy. Benny wasn't the only one that encountered chain troubles. Chains were repaired along the trail, sometimes more than once. Most of the time the rider was able to continue after making repairs, sometimes not.

Back at the finish line with riders returning, it was time for Charles Bowen and Steve Felker to collect their crew and take off for their quiet motel to tally the score. Although they had hoped to have the scores completed by 9 o'clock and posted, it was nearly an hour later that they finished. It was nearing 11 o'clock when the trophies were awarded. Even at this late hour most of the winners were on hand for the presentation. The run was neither extremely rough nor easy, so it wasn't too surprising that scores were high and in several cases had to be broken by the seconds check.

The four man crew of Paul Boyd, Bill Canafax, Bobby Pendley and Warren Taylor laid out the run. Paul Boyd was mainly responsible for the area, as he is a native of the area. Plans for next year are to bring in new territory, but to still include Dug Gap Mountain. It will take the riders away from the town side of the mountain and some of the congestion. The trophies were designed of a piece of granite with 75 mounted to it, beside this was the motorcycle rider, this formed the base. The placque had blue paneling and on the top of the trophy was the

To all the checkers and others who made this run possible the Georgia Crackers MC gives their thanks. And to the riders an invitation to join them again next year.

ENDURO
1967 VERSION

Sportsman Competition

by Cliff Boswell

For many years I have been covering the Annual Hi Mountain Enduro for American Motorcycling Magazine. Every year some improvements are seen — and some set-backs noted. This year's record entry list of 370, attests to its popularity with fans and riders on the Central California coast.

"Back in the good old days" when contestants were not so plentiful it started with coffee and doughnuts at Poly Grove on the college campus, and ended with a barbecue. A few years hence the starting place was moved to a larger staging area, and the free lunch idea dropped. The increased number of riders likewise intensified the amount of noise through the campus and along city streets, and brought down the wrath of good citizens and placed them (riders) under the watchful eye of local police and the highway patrol.

A number of incidents developed such as setting up a road block to check license plates and registration certificates and halting a "limer" for questioning while riders got mixed up and lost because of no lime markings.

The Enduro kept going, though, from year to year, but a major modification was introduced this year which may solve a lot of problems. The start was moved way-way out of town at the little reconstructed ghost town of Rinconada. It was a wise idea that caught the fancy of riders and spectators, and incidently, put a few dimes in the pockets of the Rinconada owners for coffee, sandwiches, and other refreshments.

So everyone all around was happy. No complaints from solid citizens who wanted their Sunday morning slumbers undisturbed, and no citations for running through city streets nor along the freeway.

The Enduro course was shorter by about 35 miles due to less road mileage, but the rough and tough parts were still there. With the first finishers arriving at about 1:30, there was plenty of time for everyone to get in before dark and to drive home before the wee hours of the morning.

Sponsors of the event are the Penguins Motorcycle Club of Cal Poly (California Polytechnic College) located in San Luis Obispo. This group, the only AMA college club in the U.S.A. has been active for seventeen straight seasons, and during that time has never missed promoting the Hi Mountain Enduro. The Club was first organized in 1947 at the close of War II when most of the motorcycles available were whomped up jobs coming from the welding and machine shops of the college and utilizing parts from various brands available at the moment.

It has been anything but a breeze for this group to keep the enduro running year after year. Some of them told me this year that they practically had to quit school to do it. To anyone who thinks that college students are a bunch of kooks, I say, plainly, he does not know what he's talking about. If many of the old alumni had been forced to work as hard for a "C" grade as modern collegians, they would have quit and gone back to their old man's farm in disgust. Young lads and gals in college today do not have time, even, to get sick, let alone relax for a week-end with a good motorcycle in the back country.

Local help is available from interested motorcycle riders and dealers, and one of them is Bob Miller of Ken's Cycle Shop who headed the layout crew and the pick-up gang. Bob is a veteran of many Hi Mountain Enduros, and he wants me to write a story on what to and what not to do in preparing a machine for this kind of competition. If I were a few years and beers younger I might try riding with him on his tail-end-Charlie duties — he says that it is an education in itself.

He told me about an elderly gentlemen on a road machine who was something like four hours behind, and was stalled at the base of a hill where he was able to advance about ten feet before stalling. Road gearing, road tires, and headlights with batteries are not at home in the rough terrain found in an enduro, it seems.

I may tie a tape recorder and camera to Bob on his next clean-up duty so that he can make verbal notes and snap pictures for me. Sounds like a good idea. People should know what they are getting into before they start.

Many riders look forward from year to year to this ride. It is spectacular in spots, beautiful in others, straight up and down sometimes. It immediately climbs two thousand feet from the Pozo Valley to the crest of a high ridge overlooking the distant Pacific Ocean and opening up a vista of mountains and valleys that leapfrog for endless miles into the blue haze of the horizon. On all sides are mountains. To the north, not visible, is the beginning of the great inland valley of California, the San Joaquin, said to be the largest and most productive in agriculture in the civilized world.

From high ridges the route drops to creek beds, some with water, others dry, then up and along and over other hogbacks along fire trails and through light brush marked with directional arrows. There was practically no dust this year due to earlier rains. The hills, largely built of decomposed granite, pack down solidly when damp, and many of the steep pitches were sliding slippery. Some sand in the creek beds is soft and deep, other is solid. Boulders throw their own peculiar hazards in the way. An adequate skid plate is necessary.

Let's return to Cal Poly and the Penguins momentarily. The college, originally for men only, now is coeducational with six thousand students in Engineering, Agriculture, Science, Social Sciences, Home Economics, Physical Education, etc. It sponsors some unusual events in addition to the Hi Mountain Enduro such as a collegiate rodeo, and an annual Poly Royal — a county fair on a college campus. The motorcycle club is often instrumental in furnishing parking and patroling crews, and in demonstrating special field events to add to the fun.

Other clubs, in turn, help with the enduro. The radio club, for instance, composed of electrical engineering majors gets some practical experience in furnishing and manning seven radio units at check points plus a relay station and two mobile outfits. The student body sends volunteers to set up a soft drink and dog stand at the noon check. The Penguins, themselves, tote barrels of gasoline to the noon check for the convenience of contestants, and their wives or girl friends assist at check points and at the start and finish.

Just about every brand of motorcycle takes part in the race. I have not seen a BMW twin, yet, but who knows? Maybe next year. The new BSA 441 single is very much in evidence, and is likely the most popular, now. Several of the 500cc singles of a few years back, no longer made, were running at start and finish.

Many small Suzukis and Hondas, and larger ones of the same brand kept up the pace in good shape, and the old standbys in the BSA, Triumph, and Greeves put on a good show. Yamahas, Harley 250's, and Ducati 250's showed up in lesser numbers.

Take a beautiful day in February in central western California, mix it with several hundred enduro buffs, post it in the Santa Lucia Range of mountains, and you have the Hi Mountain Enduro. It is one of the best in the west. Lots of fun for riders and spectators, alike.

Try it next year if you are out this way.

SANDBLASTERS MOTORCYCLE CLUB SPONSORS NATIONAL EVENT

On Saturday the day before the race, the mass of people began to gather on the desert 10 miles south of Ridgecrest, Calif. Like all big races in the past, the groups arrive a day early. The weather was very windy and cold and the sky was heavily overcast with rain showers moving across the valleys from the low foothills to the south.

This was to be a national championship hare scrambles and for the record, a hare scrambles is a mass of riders in a straight line across the desert with dead engines sitting astride their machines. Sometimes they are required to straddle the front wheel. A banner is held by two members of the sponsoring club so that all riders on the line may see it. When all is very quiet and no engines are running, the referee gives the signal for the banner to drop and everybody starts and heads for the smoke bomb about three to five miles out in the desert. It's free territory to the smoke bomb and one can get there anyway he wishes, but you have to pass very close to the bomb so you can pick up the lime marking the trail. You can imagine with 300 to 400 riders converging on to this focus point that it gets a bit hairy, especially if you're up near the front of the pack. There isn't too much leeway for mistakes, you might get run over, mistakes or no mistakes.

From this start the trail went into a sandwash that was super fast 4th gear on into check one. Here it turned left out of the wash and across the desert. At this point the rain began to come down heavy and would you believe electric goggle wipers at this point? What with the rain and steam from body heat fogging your lens, it's next to impossible to see anything at all. Let's face it, riding the desert you have to see, so you do the next best thing, pull off the goggles. This seemed worse as the rain felt like a million needles in your eyes along with the sand coming off the front wheel.

We ran into an uphill that was neat. Some bikes were already messed up on the side which made it almost impassable for the others, so find another way up because just as sure as sunrise there will be a check on top. Sure 'nuff there is, check #2.

A check is a secret place on the course where all riders must stop and receive a mark on the card that is taped to their gas tank. The reason for the check is for the sponsoring club to determine if a rider rode the course or if he cut course and cheated. The rider must have the right number of marks and the right color or he is disqualified. The color and number is known only to the sponsoring club members.

The course continued on through the mountains. Here it proved to be an ever changing type of race with plenty of uphills, and downhills, off cambered sidehill racing and all kinds of little surprises that made this run one of the best I have ever ridden.

The course was 30 miles around and with the three loops we had to make, it was a nice 90 mile run. The leaders were making a loop every 40 minutes which boils down to about a 50 mph average, and in that kind of country that's riding expert style. The run was perfect, well organized, well limed and in short a championship run with one exception, the weather, but those are the breaks and the desert.

Rules On A Hare Scrambles

ARTICLE XXVIII
HARE SCRAMBLES
Sanction Fee $10.00

Sec. 1—A Hare Scrambles is similar to a Cross Country Run and shall be conducted under the same rules, (Cross-Country Run - Hare and Hound American Motorcycling, March, 1967, page 22) except Sec. 4, 8 and 9. The course should be a marked unknown course using a mass start. It differs from the Cross Country Run in that it is run on a closed course of approximately 5 to 10 miles. The number of laps to be determined by the promoting club. Light-weight motorcycles may be run concurrently with the larger motors except that they must be started in mass shortly after the start of the larger motors.

Sec. 2—Checks should be arranged to make any course cutting impossible.

Sec. 3—The finish should be a checking point for each lap. (a) This check must be a STOP check.

Sec. 4—Other checks, excluding the finish line check, on the course may be of the written chain type.

MOTOR MAIDS

By Leslie Pink

Up here in the Northeast — we did see a robin on the first day of Spring. Yup, he was out there on the limb of a tree and his red breast stood out magnificently against the white background of the 16 inches of snow that was in the process of falling from the heavens. At this point, we don't think we will ever get our motorcycles out of the garages.

While I am writing this column, many of our girls are on their way home from Daytona. Those are the lucky ones. I attribute my empty mailbox to the fact that the Motor Maids were busy getting ready for their trips south. However, my empty mailbox means that I won't have too much to chat about with you this month.

The Metropolitan Chapter girls of the New York and New Jersey area are busy planning their ever popular road run scheduled for June 4th. The girls do a terrific job on this run and it is one of the best runs in the area.

The Tri-States Traveletts met at Kathy Anderson's house in Minnesota to plan their event to be held in April. Dot Fisette couldn't fit enough Motor Maids into her old house, so she bought a farm and 15 acres of land. Sounds like an ideal place for another Maids in the Woods outing to me.

Vicky Butz of New York City had a visit from Dorine Hamilton all the way from Wichita, Kansas. Dorine was in the big city for the BMW dealers' meeting. She wanted to see our lady in the harbor with the torch — the Statue of Liberty. Vicky was very happy to show her some of our town.

Barbara York of Muncie, Indiana, invited the Motor Maids to her house for the week-end of March 4th and 5th. Those attending the shindig were Margie Yoke, Rusty Denny, Vera Griffin, Mabel Hutchinson, Donna Lou Miller, Sara Adams, Linda Manor and Jean Bates. Mabel Hutchinson was put to work Saturday night to prepare a barbecue supper. After supper the girls enjoyed slides brought over by Vera Griffin. The girls then played some cards and had a late night pizza before rolling out the bed rolls. Linda Manor manned the pots for Sunday morning's breakfast. The girls relaxed all afternoon — just gabbed and played some more cards. Those Indiana girls are the "card-playingest" champs of all the Motor Maids. Sara Adams added her touch to Sunday dinner after which the girls headed for home.

Well, a last reminder to make all your reservations early this year. Convention will be a big one so make sure you have a room. Chartiy Newsies will be big also this year as many girls coming in for Convention can also make Charity Newsies. Hope to see you there.

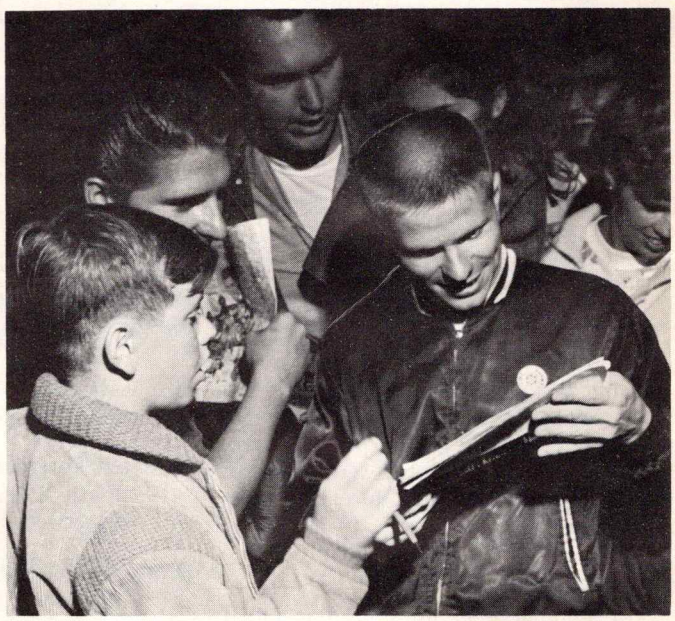
TANNER and AXTELL

ASCOT'S WINNING COMBINATION . . .

By Carol Sims
Photos by Walt Mahony



Weekly AMA flattrack racing at Ascot Park in Gardena, California is, without doubt, the most pressurized form of motorcycle competition in this country. Machines and riders, honed to a fine edge by the continuity of action, extend themselves to the limit (and beyond) every Friday night from April through November, and big purses are at stake.

Winning under these stress-plus circumstances is difficult indeed. Doing it consistently is next to impossible. But two men — rider Sammy Tanner and tuner C. R. Axtell — seem to thrive on the pressure, defeating all comers for the season championship year after year, scoring just as impressively when they venture away from home.

Tanner's riding accomplishments have been widely noted. Already ranked the nation's leading dirt track racer at nineteen, Sam moved from Texas to California for an assault on the Ascot half-mile that remains unparalleled in the track's history. Clad in white leathers and nicknamed "The Flying Flea" because of his compact dimensions and spectacular high-groove style, Sam swept the board week after week, first on BSA, then just as victoriously on Triumph. He won a total of ten main events that season (1959), including the 8-mile National from last place, and again became the AMA's high-point dirt track rider.

Although scoring a healthy share of main event wins in the following seasons, not until he began riding Axtell's BSA in 1962 did Tanner reach new plateaus of accomplishment. He's since won four consecutive Ascot championships and five National Championship dirt track races — three more Ascot 8-Miles, a 15-Mile at Heidelberg, Pennsylvania, and a particularly rewarding 50-Mile victory on the Springfield one-mile oval, unprecedented for a single-cylinder machine. Sam makes it look easy — the ultimate skill — and crowds of autograph seekers surround him after every race.

By contrast, Axtell is very much in the background. Content to let his talented rider receive the glory, "Ax" prefers working on the machine, devoting a minimum of eight hours effort, a maximum of forty-eight, to its weekly upkeep. "I always take the engine down, inspect it, and do a valve job," says C. R. "Every third week the engine is removed from the frame, completely disassembled and inspected. I replace what's necessary. Tires are replaced as needed — could be one rear tire a night."

So singular are the demands of Ascot that highly-specialized equipment must be engineered for use on this track in particular. Though its overall circumference is less than that of a standard half-mile, its straightaways are longer in relation to the radius of the turns. Its track surface varies from a deep, moist cushion to a hard, dry groove.

In this rarefied atmosphere, attention to detail is never-ending. Axtell not only changes makes of tires, degrees of hardness and air pressure as required, but designs and cuts his own special tread patterns as well. And, occasionally, there are on-the-spot chassis changes — lengthening, raising or lowering the back end of the bike. The game is called Find the Combination, and the winner moves directly to the payoff window.

Main difference between Axtell's Ascot machine and his other 500cc Gold Star, used exclusively on the Eastern half-miles and mile tracks, lies in the weight location. "The Ascot Flyer has a lot of weight on the front end and a comparatively short frame," explains C. R. "The Mile Flyer is exactly the opposite — weight jacked to the rear and a longer frame. Basically the engines are the same — good weapons, real stout. Different engines for different applications. Sometimes you want bite coming off the corners — a traction tractor. Sometimes you need a bundle of horsepower on both ends."

As they begin their fifth season of racing together, mutual respect between Tanner and Axtell is evident, as well as deep friendship. Each is aware of the delicate balance involved in such a partnership, and of the necessity for real teamwork.

"Sam's in charge of riding," says Ax, "and I'm in charge of getting something there that's worth riding. Sam's job is to get it around the corners; my job is to get it down the straightaways."

Another important member of the smoothly-functioning combination is Myron Mills. Myron handles the machining details, assists in the pits, and is held in high regard by both Tanner and Axtell. Says C. R., "You don't question his work. His machining skills are equal to Sam's riding skills. Perfect. Just perfect, that's all."

There's a welcome assist for Sam on race night, too. Chuck Burton times every lap he rides, and, according to Tanner, is accurate within 3/100ths of a second on a stopwatch. "Riding without a timer," says Sam, "is like having a checking account without knowing what the balance is. You don't know where you stand without it."

Tanner was the thirteenth man to mount Axtell's bike, and both were on the verge of hanging it up when they got together in 1962. "I was planning to retire and open a Honda agency in Texas," says Sam, "but we decided to give it another try. What I liked was that I was able to make suggestions regarding handling and so forth and Ax was more than willing to make any changes or adjustments necessary to help win. Our worst main event finish that year was third."

Sam confirms that Axtell wasn't easy to get to know personally, however. "For that first year I raced for him I didn't know him. In fact I called him Walt for eight months — thought he was Walt Axthelm, the desert rider." Tanner smiles in retrospect. "But now I'd ride a pogo stick if he was tuning it. We work together as a team, we really do. I'm not saying we go out on double dates, but we have been known to date each other's girl friends."

On race night, though, it's strictly business, with very little conversation until the last lap has been run. Each man has a task to do and does it — sometimes under particularly trying conditions. "I've seen Ax change pistons between time trials and a race," says Sam admiringly, "and I've seen him replace a broken cylinder head bolt in about 25 minutes, with help. In the four years I've been with him we've run approximately 130 races and had only seven mechanical failures — six of which were beyond his control."

Axtell is equally impressed by Sam's special high-groove skills. "He's different," says C. R. "Even when everybody is tracking around he's out there, hanging the back end out farther than anybody else. He can go like a bomb on the pole when he wants to — he just doesn't like to do it. Maybe it's a defense mechanism on his part. I think if I was a racer I'd go along with his way of thinking."

It would appear, at the start of the new season, that Tanner and Axtell are in a better position than ever. Though both of their off-track businesses are expanding (Sam heads up Sammy Tanner Distributors, a wholesale motorcycle accessory company), there is still time for a full season of racing at Ascot, plus several out-of-town National Championships.

One National in particular is a must — the 20-Miler at Sacramento, where victory has always eluded them. Twice runnerup, one of Tanner's few remaining goals is a win in this event, and Axtell will be expending every effort to see that it happens in 1967.

Metzeler Tires ?

Who Needs 'Em?

You do—if you want the very best out of your machine and your own performance.

Why?

Because in Europe, a tire manufacturer can't hide behind good roads and speed limits.

Many of the roads are worse than anything you'll find in the U.S. —tires must be built extra-tough to tame them.

And on many good roads — like the German Autobahns — there aren't any speed limits at all. So tires have to be ultra-fast . . . and ultra-safe.

Even for general riding, German tires have to be good. For competition riding, they have to be great.

Metzeler tires are great.

And Metzeler is continually proving its tires in competition racing all over Europe.

Result: many world speed records have been set on Metzeler tires.

And if they can do it in Europe, they've got to be great!

You'll find Metzeler tires available in a wide range of tread and dimension.

Look into them today!
